Maintenance Brings Home the Gold in Hospital Olympics

April Fool’s Day brought a round of April Foolery when Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital held its second annual Hospital Olympics. The event was organized by the Soc/Rec Committee, and a number of departments participated in the games. Overall winner was the Maintenance Department, followed by Administration, and a tie for third by Radiology and Medical Records.

The Business Office’s Rosa Thayer began the games with a run through the Hospital carrying the Hospital Olympic torch. First competition was a round of Jacks in the cafeteria. Medical Record’s Mary Ann Hall was the surprise winner in the round by completing Sevensies. OR’s Jake Poling took Silver with Fivesies, and Kim Rush completed Threesies and took the Bronze. For those who don’t remember the game, jacks is based on throwing the 10 metal jacks down on a surface, bouncing the ball up in the air, while picking up the metal stars. By completing sevensies, Mary Ann was able to pick up seven at one time - a very impressive feat. Low man on the totem pole was Maintenance’s Richard Moneypenny, who apparently had never played jacks...he completed none!

The next round of games was Musical Chairs, also played in the cafeteria. Betty Brown was the music controller. Jimmy Buffett music blared from the cassette player as the 13 players moved around the 12 chairs, positioned in an oblong circle.

Some players were relying on their stealth, some on speed, and some participants hoped girth would take the prize. All contestants ran their fingers across the backs of the chairs as they moved tentatively in front of the chairs.

In the order of exclusion were Karen Rinker, Julia Spelsberg, Kim Rush, Amanda Johnston, Denny Marple, Jake Poling, Tina Burnside, Brenda Gum, and Rick Thomason. Placing with the Bronze was Missy Lattea of Dietary. Radiology’s Mary Jane Parker took the Silver. Richard Moneypenny, who had came up empty in the Jacks competition, took the Gold in the Chairs.

Another Maintenance first went to Rusty Simpson, who took the Gold in the Yo-Yo competition with 115 spins. Winning the Silver was Business Office’s Tedra Linger with 77 spins. Bringing in a third-place showing for Administration was Bill Czako with 20 spins. Other participants were: Betty Brown - 17 spins; Debbie Heater - 12 spins; Dr. LaNasa - 6 spins; Lois Lamb - 5 spins; and Rick Thomason - 1 spin.

Administration’s Julia Spelsberg took top honors in the Hula Hoop Spinning contest. Organizers of the Olympics found that no one could actually hula with the hoops provided. It was decided to have the competitors spin the hoop down the Medical Records hallway. The only rule was that the hoop had to return to the competitor. The longest distance won. Medical Record’s Amanda Johnston took the Silver; and Rusty Simpson, the Bronze.

Jump Roping honors went to Radiology’s Traci McGill, who was able to complete 50 jumps. Richard Moneypenny had 31, tying with Dr. LaNasa. Joyce Greenlief brought home the Bronze for Administration with 23 jumps. Other competitors included: Tammy Moody - 19 jumps; Mary Ann Hall - 14 jumps; and Joan Rohm - 5 jumps.

A CULTURE OF SAFETY

Patient safety is the hot-button issue in today’s healthcare environment. Purchasers of healthcare are demanding that an error free mentality be imposed from those in leadership positions. In response to this demand, the JCAHO has promoted seven safety goals as the linchpin of their new accreditation system. Those goals are as follows:

1. Improve the accuracy of patient identification;
2. Improve the effectiveness of communication among caregivers;
3. Improve the safety of using high-alert medications;
4. Eliminate wrong-site, wrong-patient, wrong-procedure surgery;
5. Improve the safety of using infusion pumps;
6. Improve the effectiveness of clinical alarm systems; and
7. Reduce the risk of healthcare-acquired infections.

These goals are a much needed and very practical source for designing processes to meet the demands of patient safety.

As an employee, it is critical that you know, understand and work diligently with your colleagues to implement these goals so that the patients you serve daily may receive care in an error-free environment.

SJ Home Care’s Joe and Jane Eisenbeis are the very, very proud grandparents of their first grandchild, Dakota Joseph. Dakota was born to Jana Eisenbeis Posey on March 8. He weighed seven pounds, five ounces.

John E. Law Named To SJMH Board of Directors

John E. Law, of Camden, has been appointed to the board of Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital. John is a certified public accountant and president of the accounting firm John E. Law CPA, A.C.

He is a graduate of Saint Patrick High School in Weston and Glenville State College.

John took over the accounting firm from his parents, John T. and Bernadette Law, in 1993, when his father retired. He is married to Melinda. The couple have two children - Elizabeth, 11, and Sarah, 9. He is past president of the Weston Rotary Club and is now a director of the board of directors. He has also served as past Assistant District Governor Area Four District 7530 of the Rotary.

John is a member and lector at Saint Boniface Church in Camden. He was president of the WV Public Accounting Association and is a permanent board member. He was Accountant of the Year in 2003. He also belongs to the WV Society of CPAs.

John is already serving as a member of the Hospital’s finance committee and is delighted with his recent appointment to the Hospital’s Board.

“I am thrilled to death to be able to help,” he said. “I believe community service is important, and Stonewall Jackson Hospital is a vital part of our community here.”
Alzheimer’s Program Provided By Auxiliary

It is startling to learn that nearly 42,000 West Virginians have Alzheimer’s disease. Half of those suffering with it are 85 years and older. The average lifetime cost for the Alzheimer’s victim is $200,000. These sobering statistics were part of a program presented by Nancy Cipoletti of the WV Alzheimer’s Association at Stonewall Jackson Hospital on March 17.

The Theresa Snaith Hospital Auxiliary provided the program to auxiliary members, medical staff, Hospital employees, nursing students, and several members of the public.

Cipoletti explained that Alzheimer’s is a gradual deterioration of a person’s memory functions. Unfortunately, there is no cure, but much research is being done.

The Alzheimer’s Association, a national leader in the fight against Alzheimer’s, believes that it is critical for people with dementia, along with their families, to receive information, care, and support as early as possible. To help family members and healthcare professionals recognize warning signs of Alzheimer’s disease, the Association developed a checklist of common symptoms.

Not everyone with Alzheimer’s disease or a related dementia has all of these symptoms, and all of us may experience one or two of the symptoms from time to time. A person who has Alzheimer’s disease will exhibit several of the symptoms listed below, and they will worsen gradually over a period of time.

- Memory Loss
  One of the most common early signs of dementia is forgetting recently learned information. While it’s normal to forget appointments, names, or telephone numbers, those with dementia will forget such things more often and not remember them later.

- Difficulty performing familiar tasks
  People with dementia often find it hard to complete everyday tasks that are so familiar we usually do not think about how to do them. A person with Alzheimer’s may not know the steps for preparing a meal, using a household appliance, or participating in a lifelong hobby.

- Problems with language
  Everyone has trouble finding the right word sometimes, but a person with Alzheimer’s disease often forgets simple words or substitutes unusual words, making his or her speech or writing hard to understand. If a person with Alzheimer’s is unable to find his or her toothbrush, for example, the individual may ask for “that thing for my mouth.”

- Disorientation to time and place
  It’s normal to forget the day of the week or where you’re going. But people with Alzheimer’s disease can become lost on their own street, forget where they are and how they got there, and not know how to get back home.

- Poor or decreased judgment
  No one has perfect judgment all of the time. Those with Alzheimer’s may dress without regard to the weather, wearing several shirts or blouses on a warm day or very little clothing in cold weather. Individuals with dementia often show poor judgment about money, giving away large amounts of money to telemarketers or paying for home repairs or products they don’t need.

- Problems with abstract thinking
  Balancing a checkbook may be hard when the task is more complicated than usual. Someone with Alzheimer’s disease could forget completely what the numbers are and what needs to be done with them.

- Misplacing things
  Anyone can temporarily misplace a wallet or key. A person with Alzheimer’s disease may put things in unusual places: an iron in the freezer, a wristwatch in the sugar bowl, a sandwich under the sofa.

- Changes in mood or behavior
  Everyone can become sad and or moody from time to time. Someone with Alzheimer’s disease can show rapid mood swings - from calm to tears to anger - for no apparent reason.

- Changes in personality
  People’s personalities ordinarily change somewhat with age. But a person with Alzheimer’s disease can change a lot, becoming extremely confused, suspicious, fearful, or dependent on a family member.

- Loss of initiative
  It’s normal to tire of housework, business activities, or social obligations at times. The person with Alzheimer’s disease may become very passive, sitting in front of the television for hours, sleeping more than usual, or not wanting to do usual activities.

If you recognize several of these warning signs in yourself or a loved one, the Alzheimer’s Association recommends consulting a physician. Early diagnosis of Alzheimer’s disease or other disorders causing dementia is an important step in getting appropriate treatment, care, and support services.

For information about Alzheimer’s disease, call the Alzheimer’s Association, WV Chapter, at 1-800-491-2717.

THANKS

Dear Mr. Shaffer,

Our Dad, Lawson Robinson, was a patient at Stonewall Jackson Hospital two different times this month. We could not have been treated better. The staff, from admissions to check out, treated us great. Our Dad is 92 years old and sometimes needs a little extra attention; he can’t see or hear very well - every time he needed something, someone was there. Your staff took the extra time to explain to him what they were doing and why. We would not hesitate to take him back to Stonewall again. Most times you only hear the bad things. We think you have a wonderful staff and we wanted you to know the good job they all do.

Thank You.

Sincerely,

Mary G. Sleigh

To the Board of Directors,
Medical and Dental Staff and Employees of Stonewall Jackson Hospital,

Thank you very much for the beautiful flowers you sent for our mother’s service. The memories of her career and the “gang and the good ol’ days at SJMH” were happy ones and always brought a smile to her face.

Julie was equally complimentary of SJMH and its employees.

“I feel very fortunate to be able to work at a healthcare facility that supports my community. It is a very nice place filled with a group of very nice people,” Julie said.

Lisa’s nominator praised her demeanor and work ethic.

“Lisa is a great role model for the employees of SJMH. Her great attitude, work ethic, and interaction with other employees and our patients add to a positive work and healthcare environment. It seems that wherever you see her, there’s a smile on her face,” wrote her nominator.

Lisa was equally complimentary of SJMH and its employees.

“After the recent experience I had with the passing of my father, I was thankful to work at a place like this. It is wonderful here and almost like an extended family,” Lisa commented.

Lisa is married to Brian and they have two daughters - Brianna, 8, and Taylor, 4.

She is the daughter of Rosemary Mertz Dennison and the late William Dennison of Camden.

Basket Winner Named

The Wind Walker Relay for Life Team at SJMH held a drawing for a Mother’s Day Basket. It was won by Bonnie Riffle of Braxton County. Vonda Straley sold the winning ticket.

The team is selling 50/50 tickets up until the Relay on June 11-12.

See Connie Riffle for more information.

Wrestlers Have Winning Program

Assistant Coach Rick Thorson of the Lewis County Junior Wrestling Program was delighted with the success of the team at the W Junior Wrestling Championship. It was held at East Fairmont High School on Sat., March 13.

More than 25 local children, aged 4 years old to 14 years old, participated in the tourney. The team placed third overall, out of 20 teams, with seven individuals taking state championships. This accomplishment was the most individual champions in a single season for the junior wrestlers from Lewis County.

Maintenance’s Rick Simpson had a great interest in the tourney. His son, Ryan, was the champion for the 9- and 10-year-old, 130-pound class.

Head Coach Jeff Hall, Steve Rogers (Melissa Rogers’ husband), Brian Corley, and Rick worked hard for this great success.

Rick wrestled while at Lewis County High School and went to the State Championships... “It is hard to believe that I was 112 pounds as a senior in high school,” said Rick. “Though I was only 112 pounds of rolling madness.”

Massage Therapy Offered at SJMH

SJMH’s Kim Nicholson, PTA, completed her licensure in massage therapy from the Clarksburg Beauty Academy. She has been studying at the Harrison County school since November 2003. She had 600 hours of hands-on experience plus a curriculum dedicated to massage therapy.

Kim is now qualified to perform both medical and relaxing massage. To receive her licensure, she performed at least fifty 50-minute massages. There were six students in the class.

Kim noted that she can perform massage for the relief of migraine headaches, back problems, general muscle spasm, sciatic nerve problems, soft tissue massage, and carpal tunnel work.

Kim is a graduate of Bridgeport High School and received her physical therapy assistant degree from Fairmont State College. She recently married Bucky Nicholson; the couple live in Bridgeport.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THE UPCOMING JCAHO SURVEY?

Here’s a little help from the Staff Development Department.

What steps do you take when leaving a housecleaning cart to clean one room to the next to ensure the safety of all patients of all age groups?

What do you do differently when drawing blood from an infant vs. an adult vs. a geriatric patient?

How does your manager or department head know that your license, certification, or registration is up to date?

Do you have a written job description and have you ever seen it?

How is patient privacy protected here?

Do you wear your ID badge and is it current? Where do you go to get a new one?

What do you do differently when setting up a meal tray for a toddler vs an adult patient?

If you are unsure of the answers to any of these questions, please contact your manager or department head or the Staff Development Department for clarification. More to come...

The Gee Lick CEOS donated handmade baby hats for newborns at Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital. The hats were part of a skin cancer prevention program initiated in 2003 by Lewis County C.A.R.E.S., a group dedicated to educating Lewis Countians about cancer prevention. The hats should keep harmful sun rays off the newborns. Pictured above making the donation are: seated, left to right - Rose Mary Jackson, Elizabeth Reel, Rosemary Lamm; standing, left to right - Garnet McKeown, Sheila Reel.
