Dr. Hornsby Honored by WVSOM

Dr. Brian Hornsby was honored with a surprise reception on Mon., June 20, in the boardroom at Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital. He was honored as the Central Region Primary Care Outstanding Preceptor for the 2015-2016 Academic Year by Dr. Frank Swisher, of the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine (WVSOM) Assistant Dean. Adrienne Tucker, WVSOM Central Regional Director was also present for the award ceremony.

Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital Chief Executive Officer Avah Stalnaker welcomed the attendees including a number of SJMH staff and Dr. Hornsby’s family members including his wife, Leigh Ann, and daughter, Morgan.

Dr. Swisher noted that each year the WVSOM presents two Outstanding Preceptor Awards in each statewide campus region. One goes to a primary care giver and one to a non-primary care specialist. The WVSOM students in each region nominate preceptors for the award.

Our region is the Central Region, and includes the central part of WV from Elkins and Buckhannon to Weston, Bridgeport, Morgantown, Parkersburg, and into Marietta, OH.

Preceptors assist and provide guidance to WVSOM medical students in the third-and fourth-year clinical rotations. The Outstanding Preceptor Awards are presented to physicians who exhibit professionalism and demonstrate excellence in teaching and mentoring. These health professionals have also demonstrated a commitment to community wellness and service.

Dr. Swisher noted that Dr. Hornsby received several exceptional comments such as:

“Dr. Hornsby is one of the most professional physicians I have rotated with. He is active in the community and truly takes care of his patients. He is an advocate for the osteopathic profession and services as a mentor for multiple students;

“Dr. Hornsby is an outstanding physician and teacher. He genuinely cares about our education and explains his thinking as well as including the student on every aspect of the patient’s care…truly outstanding;

“Dr. Hornsby is a very good preceptor who takes pride in teaching students;

“Dr. Hornsby is such a wealth of knowledge and he genuinely cares about your medical education. He made sure that I understood everything we were doing before we moved on. It was a great rotation and he

Physician Dr. Brian Hornsby received an honor on Mon., June 20, from the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine (WVSOM). He was named Preceptor of the Year for the local region. was a good preceptor;
“This was by far one of the best rotations I have had all year in terms of education. Dr. Hornsby is an excellent teacher and challenges the student to really think.
Dr. Swisher then made his presentation.
“In appreciation of his efforts and commitment to excellence in Osteopathic Medical Education, the Central Region Primary Care Outstanding Preceptor Award for the 2015-2016 Academic Year is presented to Brian Hornsby,” Dr. Swisher said.
Avah Stalnaker provide the audience with some background on Dr. Hornsby and noted that she was first introduced to him via an email message in 2010 from him, while he was still in school.
He attained his undergraduate degree from the College of West Virginia (now Mountain State University) for Respiratory Care and was a respiratory therapist for ten years. This experience made him very comfortable with many aspects of clinical care. He then attended the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine, at Lewisburg for his medical training.
Avah explained that with his previous respiratory experience, that Dr. Hornsby brings a wealth of medical experience to his practice. As well as his work in ICU, he could set up Bi-paps and home oxygen services. As a respiratory supervisor, he was familiar with the workloads of the therapist from supervising daily schedules, doing payroll, and scheduling staff.
At Stonewall Jackson, the administration has found that they could call on Dr. Hornsby to help with projects such as the Vein Center.
In conclusion, Stalnaker state, “We are very proud of you for this recognition.”
He and his wife of 22 years, Leigh Ann Hornsby, both graduated from Oak Hill High School in 1991. The couple has two children - daughter, Morgan, and a son, Nicholas. Morgan is at Fairmont State University, where she is majoring in pre-med. Nicholas will be entering the military next month. He is the son of the late James W. Hornsby, and Marian Hornsby who still lives in his hometown of Scarbro, WV.

Thanks

Wanted to send a very special thank you to my SJMH family. I never expected what I received after the benefit and I am overwhelmed with gratitude. I am so lucky and blessed to work with such a great group of individuals.

Thank you again!
Diane (Ocheltree)

The Relay for Life of Lewis County 2016 was a huge success thanks to your generous donations to this event. We truly appreciate your cash and/or in-kind donation and want you to know that everything you do helps tremendously in this fight against cancer.

The Relay for Life event was full of excitement and fun. We had over 20 teams who went out to collect donations from Businesses and individuals. They hosted games and activities at their campsites and lent support to Cancer Survivors and Caregivers.

Thank you for being part of an amazing event and for all your help. We look forward to seeing you again next year.

Truly yours in the fight against cancers,
Barb Watson, Charla Barrett, Susan Thompson and Suzie Gatian- Event Co-Lead Volunteers and Carmen Hathaway of the American Cancer Society.

My Dearest Namesake Julia,
Thank you for your part in making the Lewis County “Love Your Heart” event a success. All the speakers (two from the Hospital) and the variety of related topics kept people interested. Those who attended should do more to prevent a heart event and be ready to help in case there is a need. Everybody took home some fruit, nuts, chocolates and pedometer to get them started on “Loving Their Heart.”

Thanks,
Julia Bragg
